1. Plushton - now and then

The town of Plushton was founded in 1645 by Elephant John. Since John founded the town, it has grown so much and it has become the most famous plush town in the world. People appreciate this town for its uniqueness. It is really an interesting story how John founded this town.

First of all, the town existed many years before John arrived there. Of course, it did not exist in the form that exists today and it was not on any geographic map, as it is today, but nevertheless, it existed. It had only few inhabitants before the John's arrival. The most famous one is Sea Turtle Charles who is the oldest citizen of Plushton. When John founded Plushton, he proclaimed Charles as its mayor. Charles is 378 years old, and that makes him the wisest citizen of Plushton. Also, Charles helped John a lot in this process of making a town.

When John first came there, it was just a small place, with three or four houses. They did not even have a supermarket, but they had to go to a near-by town, which, by the way, was 15 miles away. There was no school, no hospital, nothing. The only thing that this place was recognizable for was the two giant pillars on the east side. These are today known as the gate of the town. Mush Lion Michael is the king of the Plushton, as he guards the gates day and night.

When John came, he had a vision how this place should look like. And after so many years from then, we can see that he was right when he decided to make a town like this. It is perhaps a small town, but it is precisely because of that so beautiful.

Today, Plushton is one of the most famous towns in the world. It is a proper city as it has schools, hospital, prison, workshops, cinema and many other things. It is urbanized city, but it has also managed to preserve the necessary tradition which makes it even more special. All of its citizens are good and respectable members of society. Because of its enormous beauty and uniqueness, a lot of plushes around the world have immigrated to Plushton. The city is growing larger day after day, and it is more beautiful moment after moment.

2. One day at Plushton High

It was Monday morning, and on the streets of famous Plushton town you could see all of the plush kids going to their school. The little plushes were so cheerful and happy, although it was early in the morning and as it was a winter time it was very cold. That night, the first snow had fallen, and all the plushies enjoyed making snowballs and making angels in the snow. They enjoyed playing in the snow so much, that they came late to school. The teachers were a little bit angry, especially Blue Crab Christopher who demanded a perfect behaviour on his classes always. Nevertheless, classes started as usual, and the first class for Tiger Robert and his best friend, Giraffe Marry was the biology class at Mr. Christopher. These two best friends were noted for being always funny, even when the situation was serious.

Perhaps of all that snow, they were especially inspired for making jokes that day. The first thing they did is that they brought snow balls in the classroom, and threw them at some students. Christopher barely managed to bring the situation under control. A few minutes later, just when everybody started to feel bored due to the new biology lecture, something about chromosomes, Robert decided that it was a high time to tell the whole class about a new gossip related to Mr.Christopher. Namely, he invented that Professor Christopher fell in love with one of his female colleagues from the school. It was only after a few seconds that the whole class started to giggle and whisper something. This of course, deconcentrated old Professor Christopher, and he had to start a new lecture, something about mammals. The final touch to that class was Marry who started singing a Christmas song, because it was Christmas time. She started quietly, but then Robert joined her, and a few minutes later the whole class sang together. Even Professor Christopher sang, because not even he can resist the spell bounding atmosphere of Christmas.

This was just another ordinary day at the Plushton High. After the classes were over, all the children gather together in the school backyard and played until the night fell. And the night brought a queer new story, which surprised everyone the following morning. In Plushton, every new day brings a new adventure.

3. Interview with Nancy - the famous Plushton singer

Nancy is one of the most beautiful Dinos in the world, and most certainly the most famous one. Nancy is twenty two tears old and she has already made a successful career. She is the most famous singer in Plushton, but people all around the world have heard about her and are actually singing happily all of her songs. Nancy lives in Plushton, although she has enough money to live wherever she wants. However, as she says, Plushton is her favorite place in the world and she would not change it for anything else there is. For her, Plushton represents all the happiness and joy in her life, and also there are all of her friends, whom she loves very much and cannot imagine the life without them. In one of the numerous interviews that she gave, she told the story of how she managed to become a singer. Here is the story.

“I know that people think that it is an easy job to be a singer, but it is actually harder than it seems. It is true that I have always believed, or better to say, imagined becoming a singer. When I was a child, I used to go around our family house and I used to sing all day long. Luckily, I have a pleasant voice, or at least I was told so (Nancy giggles). I loved to sing so much and I remember that I had learnt thousands of songs by heart. My favorite singer at that time was Justin Bieber. My first public appearance occurred when I was 18 years old, and it was in my high school. It was some ceremony due to the school’s anniversary day. I was chosen to sing in front of the whole school, and you cannot imagine how nervous

I was. I thought that everybody would laugh at me, but it was quite the contrary. All of my friends and acquaintances were amazed how good I was. It was by pure luck, that a famous manager was present at that ceremony and when he heard me singing, he was delighted. That is what he said. Poll, the manager, decided to give me a chance and to hear me again singing in his studio. And so, a week later, I signed a contract with Poll's discography house, and that was the first step into my new life as a singer.

Since then everything has changed. It is true that I am famous now, and I really like that I do for living something that suits me perfectly. However, there are many things which I miss from my 'previous life'. I miss spending more time with my family and friends. I hate that I had to miss a lot in my school program. I hope that I will catch up with all of that sometime in the future. Of course, nothing of these would have been possible without my family and my friends who did nothing but supported me through all of these years. And I have to mention, my two very best friends who are always with me on my tours, and without whom, this would not be the same. Those are T-Rex Jason and Triceratops Eric. I love you guys! "

At the moment, Nancy is in Plushton. She has just come back from the tour in US. She had a lot of success. If you think that she is resting now, you are wrong. She is currently in her studio, preparing a new CD. We are all looking forward to hearing her new songs.

4. Giraffe Mary - the Future Famous Model and Plush Cow Linda - the Most Famous Model in Retirement

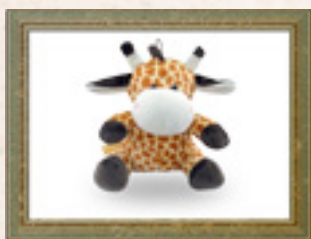

Giraffe Mary is the tallest citizen of Plushton. There is no a single thing that can happen in Plushton that Mary does not notice. Being a young ghou, Mary's dream is to become a famous model, but a lot of hard work is in front of her, because she is still in her High School. Plush Mary really has great personality, and perhaps her only flaw may be that she is a bit too rebellious. She cannot stand authorities of any kind and that is why she often finds herself in conflict situations, especially with her teachers. The teacher she respects the most, but at the same time has the most problems with is Mush Cow Linda.

Linda is well known in Plushton because of her enormous beauty and gentle personality. Though, Linda is always bright and amiable, she is not naive at all. Also, she had pretty successful modeling career when she was younger, but she decided to retire from modeling and so she started working as a teacher of literature in Plushton High. Linda recognizes herself in Mary, and that is why she wants to help her in her career. But Mary doesn't always appreciate her help, because she thinks she can do everything by herself. One day, Mary got a special assignment for her homework. She had to write a short essay about what she expected to get from her future career as a model. Mary, of course, saw this task as unnecessary one and she refused to do it. When Linda asked her to read her essay, Mary said she didn't do it. Linda was offended by this, but she didn't say anything in front of the whole class, but after the lecture was over, she and Mary had a long conversation. Linda explained to her that all she ever wanted was to help her, and that she was sorry that Mary misinterpreted that. Plush Mary thought that Linda wanted to brag about her famous modeling career and didn't think that Linda can help her. Mary thought that essay could embarrass her in front of all her class mates and being a rebel she fancied not doing it. Her teacher, Linda, was really sorry because of that, because she saw that assignment as a way of expressing her deepest desires related to modeling. Linda always considered writing as the best way to express your emotions and secrets.

Mary left the classroom that day with a bit changed opinion regarding Linda, but she still didn't want her help. At that moment, she didn't know that Linda's help would be crucial not only for her career, but also for her entire life.

This year it was her turn to undergo a Richard's ploy.

Richard knew that Nancy's worst fear was the fear of the darkness. So he decided to wait for her in the dark and to scare her. The situation was even better for him, when there was a total blackout in the whole town. He didn't have to bother to turn off the lights. Moreover, Nancy was already scared a bit when the blackout occurred and it was a Halloween night. She had a feeling that something bad will happen. Well, it didn't happen anything genuinely bad, but for her, what happened was like the worst nightmare came true.

Nancy was on her band rehearsal, and about ten o'clock pm she returned home. At first sight, she thought there was nobody home. She couldn't turn the lights on, because there was no electricity. She decided to go to her room, and light a candle and prepare for her tomorrow's performance. When she opened the door of her room, Richard appeared in front of her in his Halloween costume of a Frankenstein creature. At first, Nancy was paralyzed with fear and she couldn't move. Richard just said: "BOO!" and Nancy started screaming and running away from her room. Richard followed her, making some strange noises behind her. Suddenly, Nancy turned towards 'Frankenstein Monster' and headed towards him to hit him with the baseball bat. At that moment, Richard saw what would happen and started to run away from her. When he came to the end of the hallway, he started screaming not to hit him, and he took off his mask. 6. A little tack caused a lot of trouble

It was a beautiful sunny day at Plushton. It was one of those ideal days to go for a stroll in the park. The sun was shining and the birds were singing. Plushed Panda Timothy decided to take advantage of such a day and to go for a walk in the park. He went out of his house and headed towards the park. He enjoyed the sun on his face. He took off his eyeglasses and put on his sunglasses. He didn't mind he cannot see that well, because he enjoyed the whole day. So far. Timothy sauntered through the park, just looking at the trees and sky and he was really peaceful and tranquil. He met a lot of his friends and said hello to everyone. One of his best friends, Hippo Frank wanted to join him in his walk, but Timothy wanted to walk alone because that was one of his rituals before his performance in the theatre. In that way, he could clear his mind and concentrate only on his role. As he was strolling across the park, deeply involved in his thoughts, Timothy didn't notice a small tack on the path. This tack was so small, thus completely unnoticeable. It had a flat head, but a very sharp point. As he didn't see it, Timothy trod right on this tack and the sharp point got right into his foot. The tack was so sharp that it went deep into his left foot. The pain was terrible. Timothy fell on the ground immediately and started to cry because of all that pain. He tried to pull the tack out, but he couldn't. At the moment, nobody was passing near him, and he just couldn't believe. He had actually gone to the remote part of the park, not even noticing that. No one was there to help him now. Timothy tried to get up, but he couldn't and the tack just went even deeper in his foot, and now he needed someone to pull it out. The only plushie that he could see near to him was Rooster Jose. Jose was pretty much the only Plushton citizen with whom Timothy didn't get on well. He didn't like Jose because of his arrogance aloofness. But at that moment he had to call him for help. Jose saw him when he trod on the tack, but he didn't want to approach him before being called first. But as soon as Timothy called him for help, he ran towards him. Jose helped him to get up and put him to sit on the bench. By pure accident, Jose had tweezers in his pocket and he somehow managed to pull the tack out of Timothy's foot. They still decided that it would be better for Timothy to go to the hospital and prevent any kind of infection. Jose wanted to help him walk to the hospital. But the road to the hospital was long, and these two funny guys argued a couple of times until they reached the hospital. Jose left Timothy in front of the hospital, and went home. He regretted helping him on the first place, and Timothy regretted calling him for help at all.

It is true that Paul is the older of the two brothers, but it is Donald who acts more maturely, but only when it comes to money. In all the other situations, it is Paul who acts with more tranquility. Being pretty much the same, no one in Plushton can tell the difference between them, and these two sneaky brothers often try to take advantage of that. Here is what happened to them this summer.

It was one of those perfect summer days, when nothing spectacularly happens. Just an ordinary day in Plushton. But, Don and Paul decided to change that and make this Monday a day to remember. Since it was a beautiful sunny day, they decided to go to the beach. They planned to go and swim for a while. Not even in their dreams did they imagine that they would find themselves in such a serious situation. They were really happy that they finally arrived at the beach, after walking for half an hour on all that sun that was burning through their skins. When they saw all that huge water in front of them they could not wait a minute longer, and they hurried to jump into the water. When they felt the water after all that heat in the air, they felt extraordinary. Don was really happy that he can spend some time with his brother, because lately, they had a lot of work to do, so they didn't really have time for hanging around. For the first half an hour, they just relaxed and enjoyed the perfection of the afternoon. After swimming for a while, Don decided to go out of the water and take the ball and play with Paul in the water. Paul agreed. While Don was going out of the water, he suddenly heard Paul screaming. When he turned his head towards Paul, Paul was already nowhere to be seen. Don hurried to help his brother. He tried to find him under the water, but it was too difficult because the water was too bleary. When he dived into the water for the fifth time, he noticed Paul, being all the way down on the bottom. He swam to him, and saw that some terrible algae-plant grabbed his legs and pulled him to the bottom. Don was unable to do anything, so the only thing that he could do was to call for help. He realized that the best help would be to call Dolphin Brian. Don came out on the surface, and started to shout for Brian. It was just a matter of luck that Brian was nearby, and he came as soon as possible. He rescued Paul in the last minute. A few seconds longer, Paul wouldn't make it.

After being dragged out on the coast, Paul was conscious and he was feeling well. He was so happy that he was alive. A few days later he told Don that he had thought he would die. He felt he couldn't breathe anymore, and that feeling of the lack of air was the most awful thing he had ever experienced. Luckily, Don and Brian were at the right time, on the right place. He was always so proud of himself, and he liked to brag about his gold medals all around the Plushton. And Margaret, being modest as she is, could not stand him. But everything changed when they had to compete together on the local competition. As the best swimmers Plushton had, they were chosen to represent it in the swimming competition, known as the Plushton Swimming Contest. That was the crucial moment for these two. In those couple of days which they spent inseparable, they got to know each other much better. At first, both of them were horrified that they had to work together, but they decided not to argue, because it was for the benefits of the Plushton. A lot of famous people and plushies come to this event and they didn't want to embarrass neither the town nor themselves. As the days passed, they started to like each other, but in front of others they pretended to be the same angry enemies. As they became really good friends in those couple of days, they joined their positive energies and of course, their indisputable talents, and they won the gold medal on that competition. The whole Plushton was happy for them. And the reason wasn't just them winning the first place. Stay tuned!
